The up the Ladles' club last summer. The ladles having it in charge have tried the same impossibility. They wished to make it at once exclusive and yet paying. When the Ladles' club had blackballed everybody whom everybody hated, they found themselves, like Kilkenny cats, grinning at each other and wondering who should spring at the next neck. That was not pleasant so they concluded to separate and let the club drop.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR. The Third Avenue railroad strike and the indictment of thirty-five boycotters by the grand jury will have a decisive effect upon the elections this fall. Shrewd politicians are trimming sail, and prepar-ing for a storm. The trade unions are developing a bitter feeling over the indictments for conspiracy, and it looks as though the Knights of Labor would be forced into the political field independent of the wishes of Mr. Powderly. They begin to see that all the machinery of the law is in the hands of the employers, and it is to be used to crush the employes. They are beginning to learn why it is that in this model republic boycotters can be indicted, while in oppressed Ireland the English authorities can legally do nothing to crush them. The fact that in this city they are indicted for conspiracy incenses nearly every workingman. He asks why it is that the conspiracy bolt is leveled against the laborer atone. He wants to know why employers who conspire to put up the price of coal, wheat, and other necessary commodities are not indicted. He inquires why the railroad men who conspire to raise the cost of transportation are not punished. He sees the law used in the interests of employers and against the interests of employes, and he is already looking for a remedy. and he is already looking for a remedy.

This it is that is exciting the interests of keep politicians. They recognize the power that can control the ballot-box, and they are waiting for the current to set so that they can launch their skiffs anew. The shrewdest among them are already at work in the legislature introducing bills in behalf of the strikers. A prominent candidate for congress in Pulitzer's district is vainly fighting their battles in the courts, and ex-Sheriff O'Brien, by no means a rich man, has sent $300. The district attorney is execrated for his engerness to secure indictments against the boycotters. If he was a candidate for total sales 1900 bales.
